

Hello Everyone,

I was happy to create this online version of our graduation yearbook. I hope you find it useful and enjoyable. At the end of the slideshow I have included images of the 1968 commencement handout from June 22, 1968.

When viewing the slideshow you can click on the enlargement on the right to enlarge it more, and there are other enlargement options on the right edge. In almost any view you can use your keyboard's arrow keys to walk through the slideshow, even when you are looking at enlarged images.

Shooting photos is far faster than scanning and by photographing I was able to finish this project in just one (long) day. However you will notice that pages are not always flat and so some images are not straight. Perhaps someday I will re-do the yearbook, but it will be awhile before I will have the time.

I hope you have all thanked Pegge Tinker Strella for creating a site for us to meet again. My family still lives in Northport and Alice and I visit occasionally; perhaps I'll see some of you there one of these days.

Best wishes,
Michael Craft

The smooth operation and coordination of all the many facts of school life is made possible through the Administration. By its efficiency and understanding, Northport High School has become a friendly place to receive one of the best educations possible.

Guidance

After graduation, many of the students of this school will go on to work, others will start off for college. But the problem is what kind of work? ... which college? It is the object of the Guidance Department to help answer these questions for each student so that as an individual in an adult world, he will occupy himself in the position which will make him most happy, and in which he will use his full potential to contribute towards the betterment of society.

HUMANITIES

"There were these two people, we? And their names were Adam and Eve, and they named the whole thing."

English

Discuss your feelings and compare notes with the experts. See how James Baldwin views Civil Rights, and then read Mark Twain's ideas. Discover old China with Pearl Buck. Do you feel the same about your love as did William Shakespeare? Express yourself creatively—all you need is paper, a pen, and an imagination! The English Department provides limitless opportunities for the broadening of options and development of individual creativity.

"When they say to a man who sees with his eyes, 'Have you seen?' and he says, 'I have seen,' that is the truth."

Brahmavijaya Upadhyay

Oh, come on! We saw the answers on your shirt sleeve!

"Only that knowledge knows which knows the known by the knower."

Krishna Bhagavad-Gita

As the immortal Hofmeister would say —

"I taught you that?"

Grasping the ideas of history takes ONE'S full attention.

Ideas and concepts are important in trying to understand the world today. Mr. Roy Eulson illustrates conflicting ideologies existing in the Post World War I period.

Social Studies

Hand in hand with the language barrier is another barrier to peace, and this is the barrier of conflicting ideas. Its removal comes only with the better understanding of heritages—the why of conflicting ideas. We must understand not only our own cultural and historical background, but the cultural and historical background of every man, for past events shape future thinking. The Social Studies department is dedicated in its role of "peace through understanding."

Not!!

Language

No matter where we look in today's world, there is misunderstanding—misunderstanding which often leads to war. To maintain peace, we must make ourselves understood; we must know how to express ourselves in the languages of other people. With the aid of modern electronic equipment, numerous books, and above all, the dedication of our teachers, keeping peace by better communication has become the responsibility of each individual.

"Pense, l'él esther de à myself!"

ART

"Someday, I'll
cover the world
with flowers."

Art

*If you want to be free to express yourself, take art. You may paint, sculpt, draw, paste, cut, build, and
what you may create is as boundless as your imagination.*

Waiting for the signal to begin singing are members of the boys' chorus led by Mrs. Esther Scott.

Mr. Robert Leist becomes a part of music in motion as he conducts the Symphonic Band.

Music

Music is an art too, but good musicianship requires not only creativity but cooperation and teamwork. Choir, band, and orchestra are the unifying forces which bring the musical creativity of hundreds of individuals together and harness it for the purpose of producing harmonious sounds.

Sometimes, a little milk is good to wash down a meal in Home Economics class.

Pulling out stitches can be frustrating, but the resulting garment is worth the trouble.

Home Economics

Although the world around us changes from day to day, the home remains constant as the basic center of living. The woman is the central figure in her home, and what she does in this position may make a difference in the happiness and well-being of her family. The Home Economics department prepares girls for careers as future wives and mothers—still two of the most important careers a woman may fulfill in our modern world.

The moment of truth.

Sewing the newest in fashions.

A watched pot never boils.

Industrial Arts

While some forms of art beautify and enhance the world, there are other forms of art which exist for the purpose of practicality. Students enrolled in the Industrial Arts course of our school have broad opportunities to create objects that not only decorate but are useful as well.

Headaches are a necessary evil in every teacher's career.

Protective goggles are a necessary precaution against injury as students learn how to work a lathe in shop class.

Accuracy is important in mechanical drawing.

Student plays lie detector in electronics class.

No matter what your interest, art is fun.

SCIENCE

Andre Ruggiero shows Lorna Paulake that seriousness of purpose and precision make a difference in a chem lab.

Members of the A. P. Chem class show skill in being mad scientists.

All I can say at this point is "TRY HARDER."

Science

Many of the gains we have made in our modern world towards an increased standard of living stem from the discoveries made by men before us in the wide and diversified field of science. To continue the upward trend in civilization, more advancements must be made in scientific theory, but to accomplish this, the basic understandings which past generations achieved has been the object of the Science department—to teach the before-discovered theories, and to guide the student into making discoveries on his own.

Mr. James Monissey listens attentively to a student's question.

Mathematics

Mathematics has been called the "core of the universe" and certainly, math has become greatly focused upon in understanding basics in science. The increasing need for accomplished mathematical scientists is now being met through training programs beginning in high schools such as ours where the prodigy as well as the student who simply wants to understand a little more of his world may acquire the most modern and complete education from elementary algebra to the fundamentals of calculus.

Miss Marie Gange shows how to solve equations.

"Well, I could be wrong."

Solving a problem in math often requires a lot of patience, and a lot of paper.

Helping a student learn to use machines is only one of the many tasks of Mr. Julian Milken.

Dona Silver keeps track of her place in the book, while using the adding machine with skill and speed.

How to work the mimeograph machine is one of the many things taught in the business classes.

Business

Each year, as the complex world of business expands, the demand for more and more technical services increases. However, the people who fill these positions must reach an exceptionally high level of proficiency in their work in order to operate and maintain business enterprises successfully. In reaching this caliber of proficiency then, each individual contributes to the business world in its entirety. It has been the job of the Business department to acquire and train all interested students for important roles as part of the back bone of our technical society.

Physical Education

To the Greeks, the "ideal man" was the fortunate person who possessed not only a sound mind, but a sound body as well. While the rest of the academic departments work on a sound mind, the Physical Education Department concentrates on a sound body. Gym period not only trains for better health, but provides a break in the day in which the frustrations of studying may be let out on the ball.

Library

One of the most satisfying ways in which a person may use his time is in the independent exploration of challenging ideas; and certainly, many new worlds of knowledge may be opened up to the reader of the other materials which the library of this school provides.

Cross Country Team

This was a good year for the cross country team, and some of the members such as Karl De Santos, Austin Galvin and Bob Varsha did an extraordinary job at our home grounds at Sarsken Meadow State Park and at away meets. We hope that in future years the 'team' will have such a fine crew of good sportsmen.

Team President and Vice President, Austin Galvin and Karl De Santos. Both Karl and Austin made great strides for the team and deserve a lot of credit for a fine job.

Varsity Basketball

This was a very good year for Northport's basketball team as compared to last year's season. Early in this year it looked grim when senior Doug DeGeorge hurt his foot. However, with a good recovery things looked bright again. Many fond and exciting memories can be associated with the tense moments at games against Huntington 64-57, Smithtown 60-58, West Islip 89-82, and "that" Brentwood game. The V for victory should go to the team as an integral unit and its coach—Mr. Willett. Some great accumulations of points and rebounds belong to Bob Madden, Frank Bologna, Randy Kopke and Jeff and Ken Beytin.

... Doug DeGeorge's 50 points at Whitman ...

... narrowly escaping with a victory at Bremwood ...

Varsity Coach Willets shows them how it's done.

1968 Tiger Tales

A yearbook tries to present the complete spectrum of the school year. By compiling pictures and words, we of the yearbook staff have tried to create a lasting memory.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Charlet Albham, the staff has put in many after-school hours to make our goal a reality.

We hope we have succeeded in capturing the spirit of the class of 1968.
